The Judge also referred to the enforcement of all laws—the Court was not to make the laws—only to see that they were enforced—the law making power having been wisely house and store, situated on Main was in the legislative branch of the Government. The presumption was in favor of the legality of a inw—until it was however liberal it must be enforced.

jury to see to the matter.

The Judge's charge was well received.

We wish we could have heard it all, and hope it will be given to the public

In the afternoon the grand jury lon's Night Bloomin found true bills of indictment against John S. Smid and Joseph Shroves for murder; against John S. Mills, Robert Littire bread and 1

John T. Sullivan, Catholic Priest, was licensed to celebrate the rites of matri-mony in the State.

He executed a bond of $5,000.

The case of the State vs. Ed. Stevens was continued until next term. Admitted to bail in the sum of $500.

In the State is, the following named parties the cases were called, and, the defendants not appearing, the balls were pronunced in default: Michael Daum, John S. Mills, Mercer Crawford, Christ, Repp, Perry Brown, John Mul-rine, Samuel Fowler, Rachel Mitz, and John C. Halley. The offences in most of the above cases were light, the balls ranging from one to five hundred-dol-was heard in the afternoon and decided in favor of the defendant.

Much business is before the court, an ne time will be consumed in the ses

"SPADE TAIL BLUE."-In our earlies boyhood the spade tall bine cont was our admiration. We longed for the day when we should parade ourselves before our friends arrayed in a cont of before our friends arrayed in a coat of this unique cut. The shorter the waist, the longer the tail, the sharper the points, the bluer the cloth, the brighter the buttons, the closer they were to-gether, the greater was our admiration. But relentless time went on, and the enlightened world changed the fashions are designed to be said to the sating society, we were arrayed in a straight out, Presbyterian-looking coat.
Our love for the spade-tail was gone,
and we never would have thought sigain of the subject hat we not seen one of the "tral old stock" the other We were going up Quincy street and the owner of it was coming down Market at 2.40 speed in full chase of an omnibus. We nearly collided with it. Had it been going point foremost we might have been impaled. With others, eyes astare, mouth agap, and arms akimbo, we watched it, as, with the wings of the wind, it went flying down atreet. Had we not seen it shortly after its start we never could have recognized it when under way. The last ized it when under way. The last of it, it looked like a blue streak ng down street. Of course it caught ne bus—the rate of speed used would an down a streak of greased lightning chais lightning wouldn't be a circum-tance to it. We are done with the spade tail, as they are not pretty when seen in the rear, with the tail at a right angle with the body. We can't help with the body. going repairs, resumed her place yester-day in the Parkersburg trade, relieving the New State. The latter named boat will lay up for a while. The Express will soon resume her place in the same trade.

The Potomac left at five o'clock for Cincinnati.

The Forest City passed up.
Regular packets made their usual

EVENING MARKETS,-The evening markets were commenced yesterday.

The attendance of buyers was large and the stock of articles for sale was and the stock of articles for sale was also large. Considering that the evening markets are but an experiment in our city now, we think yesterday's turn out very flattering. Many of the city butchers were out making observations, and will, we suppose, be on hands at next market with beef. As soon as these markets get regularly established, much benefit will be derived from them.

"Srook."—Some graceless scamp in East Wheeling is engaged in devoting his nights recently to playing ghost, much to the annoyance of old ladies much to the aunoyance of old ladies and young children in that vicinity. We advise him to quit it at once, as we know of at least one person who is 'flaying for him," at whose hands he will receive just chastisement if he is so unfortunate as to be captured. He may waken up some morning and find a short notice of his untimely death in the Intelligencer.

Whather.—Yesisrday was really cool. Pires abounded, and overcoats were plantiful on the street. A small apprinkle of rain fell during the day.

POLICE COURT.—In the Police Court yesterday but one came came up. James Chapman was arraigned for as ault and bettery on a youthful cou-rade. For this he was fined $20 and As soon as relieved from police custody he was re-arrested on a charge of petty larceny, having, it is said, sto-len a vest from the steamer Forest City. James is albad boy—no sooner out of the delivery of the charge to the same by the Judge.

We were prevented from hearing all of the Judge's address, which we regret trial before the Circuit Court.

A Connection.-We were waited or our readers but a brief, imperfect notice of it.

The Judge laid down to the jury, in the start, their duty. Under their oaths they were to take cognizance of offences committed within their jurisdiction.

To such a jury, he said it was but necessary to mention their duty and it would be fuifilled. The Judge also referred to day.

was proven illegal it must be enforced, and it would be the duty of the grand jury to see to the matter.

The Judge's charge was well received. We wish we could have heard it all,
